The Paper and related supplementary data are hereinafter together referred to as "the Work".

Copyright Transfer Agreement

The undersigned hereby agree(s) to transfer the following Economic Rights to the Work to the Japan Society of Applied Physics (hereinafter referred to as "JSAP"), effective if and when the manuscript is accepted for publication by the APEX Editorial Board.

Economic Rights: Any and all rights including, but not limited to, the right of reproduction (Article 21 of the Copyright Law of Japan (hereinafter referred to as the "Law")), the right of performance (Article 22 of the Law), the right of presentation (Article 22-2 of the Law), the right of public transmission (Article 23 of the Law), the right of recitation (Article 24 of the Law), the right of exhibition (Article 25 of the Law), the right of distribution (Article 26 of the Law), the right of transfer of ownership (Article 26-2 of the Law), the right of lending (Article 26-3 of the Law), the right of translation and adaptation (Article 27 of the Law), and the right of the original Author(s) regarding the exploitation of derivative works (Article 28 of the Law).

The Author(s) shall not exercise Moral Rights with respect to the Society. Moral Rights refer to the right to make the work public (Article 18 of the Law), the right to determine the indication of the Authors' name (Article 19 of the Law), and the right to preserve the integrity of the work (Article 20 of the Law).

The Author(s) retain(s) the following rights (the "Rights of Authors"):

Rights of Author(s)

- (1) The right to use part of the Work in future works and derivatives prepared by or on behalf of the Author(s).
  - (2) The right to make copies of all or part of the Work without further permission for the purpose of personal use but not for resale.
- The Author(s) shall not use any Economic Rights other than those listed above without prior written consent of JSAP. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Author(s) may use, translate, or adapt the manuscript without prior written consent of JSAP, to the extent that such use falls within the limitations (i.e., Articles 30 through 50 of the Law), except in the cases listed below:
- (A) Commercial purposes;
  - (B) Duplicated or redundant contributions to other journals of any academic society or academic journals or communications, domestic or overseas; or
  - (C) Any other purpose deemed unwarranted in light of fair academic practices.
- (3) Exception — The submitted manuscript has been authored by a contractor of the U.S. Government under Contract No. _____ Accordingly, the U.S. Government retains a nonexclusive royalty-free license to publish or reproduce the published form of this contribution, or allow others to do so, for U.S. Government purposes. Note that the rights retained by the U.S. Government are not for commercial purposes.

For further information about the copyright policy of JSAP, see <http://www.jsap.or.jp/english/copyright.html>

Who should sign

By signing this agreement, the Author(s) represent and warrant that the Work is original and does not infringe any copyright or violate any other right of any third party, and that the Work has not been published elsewhere and is not being considered for publication elsewhere in any form, except as provided herein. If each Author's signature does not appear below, the signing Author(s) represent that they sign this agreement as authorized agents for and on behalf of all the Authors, and that this agreement and authorization is made on behalf of all the Authors. The signing Author(s) also represent and warrant that they have the full power to enter into this agreement.

In the event that the Work is not accepted and published by JSAP or is withdrawn by the Author(s) before acceptance by JSAP, the foregoing copyright transfer shall become null and void and all materials embodying the Work submitted to JSAP will be destroyed. Neither the Author(s) nor JSAP shall have any liability or obligation.

Information about Page Charge Exemption

Authors or their institutions are required to pay a publication charge when a paper is accepted. For details of the publication charges, please refer to our website <https://journals.jsap.jp/apex/authors/general-information>. However, the APEX Editorial Board may help authors who have genuine difficulty in paying the publication charge. This is only applicable when all the authors belong to institutions outside Japan. Such financial support is available to only a limited number of papers per year. Authors who wish to apply for such an exemption should send an application form for page charge exemption with the authorized signature of the author in charge of this application and the signature of the Department Head of the institution at the time of submission.

Authors applying for charge exemption shall be deemed to have consented to the conditions listed below:

- The APEX Editorial Board will evaluate each application based on the importance of the research and the financial situation of the authors after the paper review process is finished. Therefore, the publication will be delayed if the authors apply for an exemption.
- The application for an exemption does not affect the paper review process in any way.
- If the paper is accepted for publication, however, it does not necessarily mean that it will be published with the exemption of the publication charge. If the application for exemption is not approved by the APEX Editorial Board, the authors will be requested to send the agreement for payment of the publication charge to the APEX Editorial Office within three weeks of the request by the APEX Editorial Division. Otherwise, the decision to accept the paper will be canceled unless a satisfactory reason is given.
- If the exemption application is approved by the APEX Editorial Board, the authors will be exempted from the payment of the publication charge in accordance with this program.
- An appeal or an inquiry against the non-approval of this application will NOT be undertaken.
- There is NO possibility of a discount or partial exemption of the publication charge.

Application for Page Charge Exemption

The authors of the paper wish to apply for a page charge exemption because they have difficulty in paying the charge to compensate for the cost of publishing the paper in APEX. The authors agree to the conditions described in "Information about Page Charge Exemption" above.

A. Please mark in either box below.

The authors cannot use research funding for the payment of the publication charge.

The authors have very limited research funds. (If this box is marked, please answer question "B" below.)

B. Why do the authors hope to publish their paper in APEX despite the lack of funds to pay the publication charge?
